Is there an investment opportunity in APTAR?

SUMMARY

- AptarGroup, Inc. (NYSE: ATR) is a leading global provider of drug delivery, consumer product dispensing, and active material science solutions. Its revenue grew at a 3.7% CAGR from 2014 to 2023, with PAT increasing at a 5.2% CAGR.
- It is financially sound with low debt equity ratio, a good cash conversion ratio and a good capital allocation track record.

- Despite revenue and profit growth, Aptar's ROE remained stagnant. This is attributed to declining operating efficiencies reflected in decreasing gross profitability, asset turnover, and net margin. There is no margin of safety at the current market price.

INVESTMENT THESIS

Aptar's ROE over the past 12 years can be considered at a standstill. As profits grew there were disproportionate increases in total assets and capital funding the assets. This led to deteriorating operating efficiencies. But the company is financially sound and with 12% ROE in 2023. However, the market has overpriced its growth and return so that there is no margin of safety at the current price.

BACKGROUND

Aptar is a global leader in drug delivery, consumer product dispensing, and active material science solutions. It creates dosing, dispensing, and protective packaging technologies for the world's leading brands.

Aptar is a global company with Europe accounting for 57% of its 2023 revenue. The company reported performance under 3 business segments in 2023.

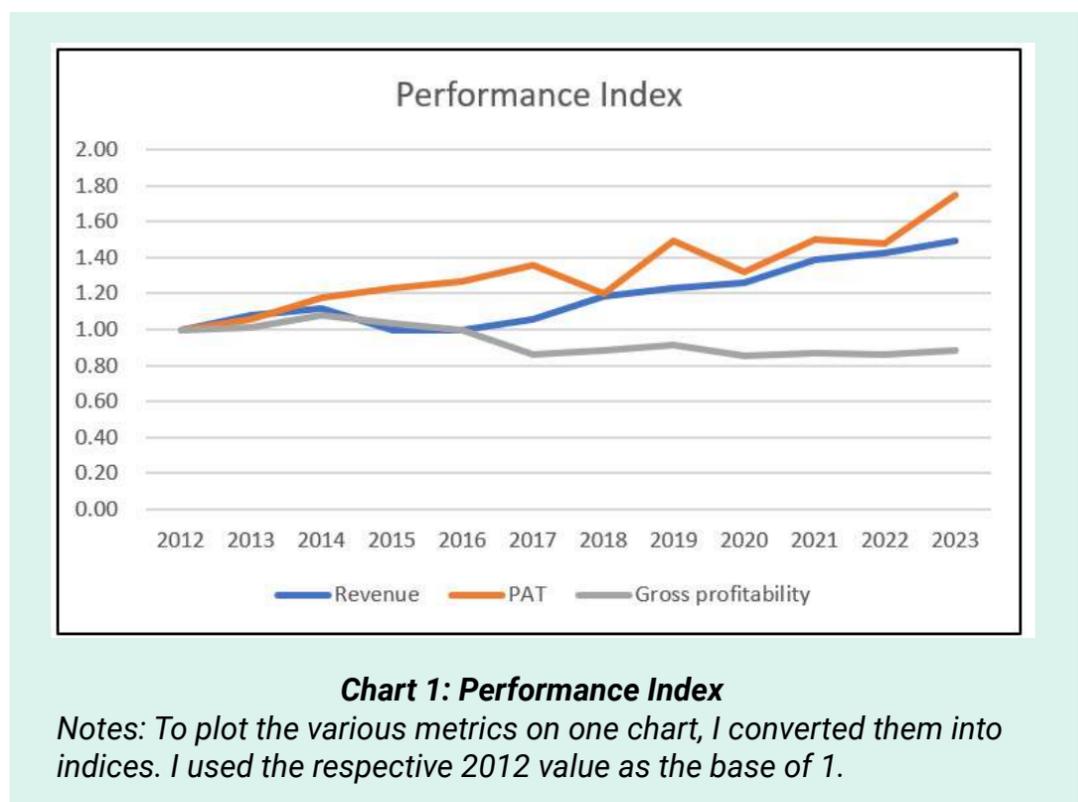

- Pharma: This segment offers a range of innovative drug delivery solutions to the pharmaceutical industry. This is the largest segment in terms of net sales and total assets, representing 44% and 47% of its sales and total assets in 2023.

- Beauty: This segment offers dispensing solutions for the beauty, personal care, and home care markets. This is the second largest segment in terms of net sales and total assets, representing 36% and 32% of the 2023 sales and total assets.
- Closures: Products in this segment included closures, spray pumps, and aerosol valves. In 2023, this segment accounted for 20% of the sales and 17% of the total assets.

OPERATING TRENDS

I looked at 3 metrics to get an overview of the overall performance - revenue, PAT, and gross profitability (gross profits / total assets). Refer to Chart 1. From 2014 to 2023, revenue grew at 3.7% CAGR while PAT grew at 5.2% CAGR. But there were some hiccups due to the following:

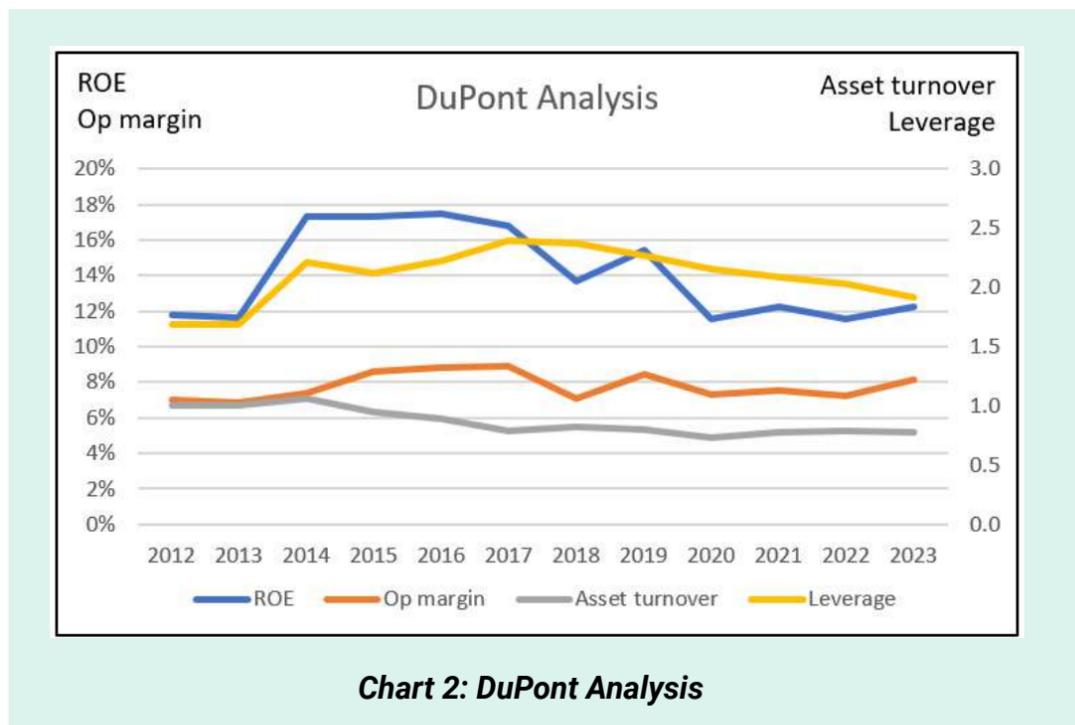

- There was a 10% drop in revenue in 2015 compared to 2014. The company attributed this to the 12% negative currency translation due to the strengthening of the US dollar.
- The drop in PAT in 2018 was due to restructuring costs along with purchase accounting adjustments and transaction costs related to an acquisition.
- You can see the impact of Covid-19 in the 2020 PAT.

The greater concern was the declining gross profitability. This meant a reduction in the capital efficiency since 2014.

Despite the better PAT, there was not much change in the ROE over the past 12 years. You can see from Chart 2 that:

- The ROE improved in 2014 but started to decline from 2016 so that by 2023 it was at the 2012 level.
- There was hardly any change in the ROE over the past 3 years.

A DuPont analysis showed that the decline in the ROE was due more to the declining leverage and asset turnover rather than the operating margin. The decline in the asset turnover was in line with the decline in gross profitability.

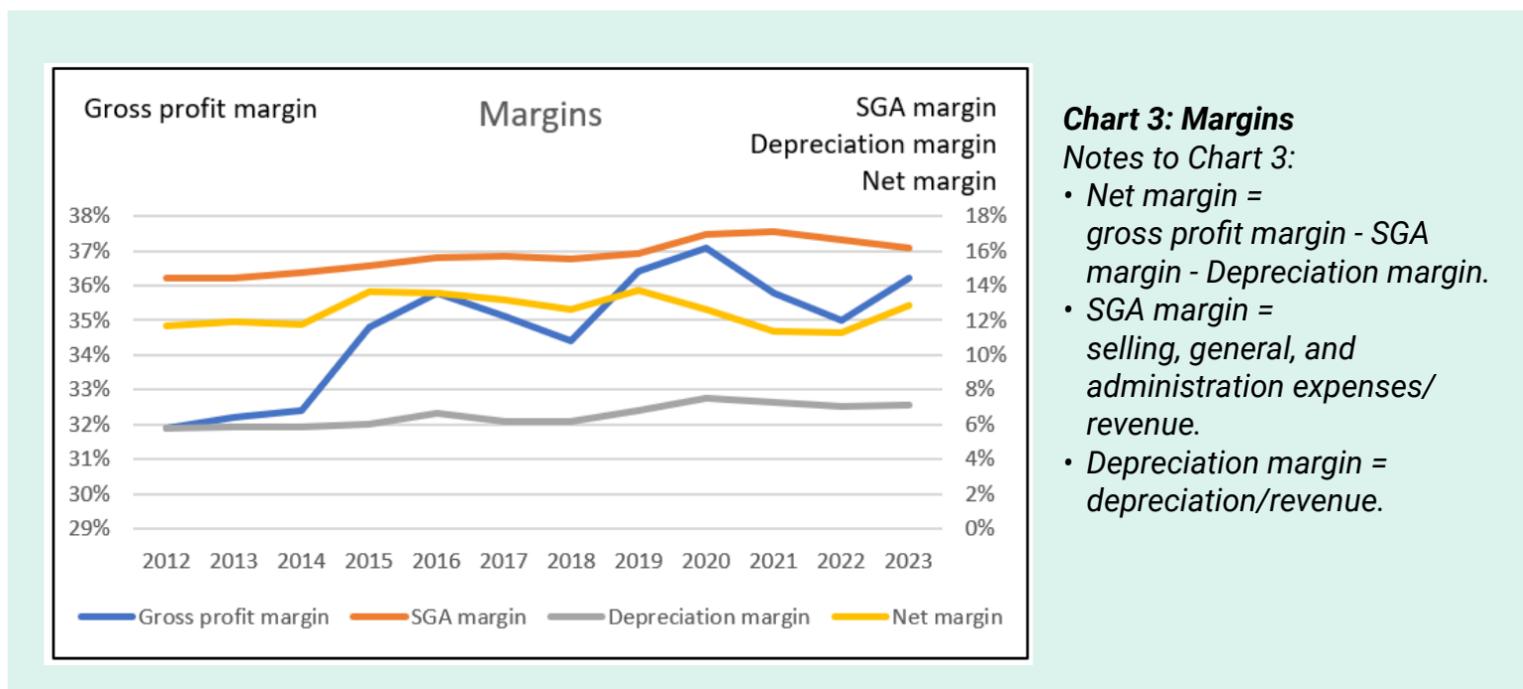

The analyses indicated that there were no improvements in the operating and capital efficiencies. These did not seem to reconcile with what the company stated in its various Annual Reports.

"...we are concentrating on areas such as cost containment and improving operational efficiencies..." 2014 Annual Report.

"...to improve our operational efficiency, including actions around local sourcing, production efficiency..." 2016 Annual Report.

"...We continue to streamline and reduce our fixed costs to increase operating efficiencies..." 2023 Annual Report.

Chart 3 provides another perspective on the operating efficiencies. You can see that net margin improved in 2015 but started to decline in 2020. This was despite the general uptrend in gross profit margin. This was because the SGA margin and Depreciation margin had uptrends (ie deteriorated). To be fair to the company, we see improvements in 2023 but I am not sure whether this is a one-off improvement or the start of improving trends. At this juncture, I am more inclined to put more weight on the longer timeframe trends.

FINANCIAL STRENGTHS

I would assess Aptar as financially sound based on the following:

- It has a 34% debt capital ratio as of the end of Dec 2023. This increased from 23% in 2012. But I consider this acceptable when compared to the sector. According to Damodaran Jan 2023 datasets, the packaging and container sector average ratio was 38%.
- There was no significant change in its cash conversion cycle. It averaged 103 days for both 2012/13 and 2022/23.

- As of the end of Dec 2023, it had USD224 million in cash and short-term investments. This was about 5% of its total assets.
- Over the past 12 years, it generated positive cash flow from operations every year. It generated about USD392 million in cash flow from operations annually compared to an annual average PAT of USD214 million. This is a good cash conversion ratio.
- Aptar has a good capital allocation track record as can be seen from Table 1. The cash flow from operations was about sufficient to fund the dividends & buybacks as well as CAPEX.

Items	Sources (USD m)	Uses (USD m)
Cash flow from Ops	4,130
Net Debt	715
Stock issuance	653
Dividends & buybacks		2,051
Net CAPEX incl intangibles		2,228

VALUATION

The value of a company depends on its expected future cash flow as per the following equation:

$$\text{Free Cash Flow to the Firm (FCFF)} = \text{EBIT}(1-t) \times (1 - \text{Reinvestment rate}).$$

You can see 2 key parameters affecting the FCFF:

- Reinvestment rate.
- Net margin which affects the EBIT.

As such I considered 3 scenarios in my valuation:

- Scenario 1: The Reinvestment rate and net margin were based on the 2012 to 2023 averages.
- Scenario 2: The Reinvestment rate was based on the fundamental rate while the net margin was based on the 2012 to 2023 average.
- Scenario 3: The Reinvestment rate was based on the fundamental rate with the best historical net margin.

For all the scenarios, I assumed that the revenue was based on the 2023 revenue with 4% growth. The results are summarized in Table 3. You can see that there is no margin of safety under all the scenarios. I valued Aptar based on the single-stage FCFF model with 4% growth. I would deduce that the market is pricing Aptar as a high-growth stock.

Scenarios	Value (USD/share)	Margin of safety (%)	Revenue (USD m)	Reinvestment rate (%)	Net margin (%)
Scenario 1	18	NIL	3,487	74%	13%
Scenario 2	57	NIL	3,487	39%	13%
Scenario 3	70	NIL	3,487	39%	14%
Market price 16 Oct 2023	130

Table 2: Valuation of Aptar

My valuation model is based on the single-stage Free Cash Flow to the Firm model. It is the same model that was used in the original article but with the data updated till Dec 2023. For details on the valuation model refer to the original article.

CONCLUSION

Aptar achieved revenue and profit growth over the past 12 years. But to an investor, the more important metric is ROE. Unfortunately, the ROE in 2023 was about where it was in 2012. I would trace this "standstill" picture to declining operating efficiencies. This is exemplified by the declining gross profitability, asset turnover, and net margin. But it is financially sound with a good capital allocation plan.

My valuation of Aptar based on several net margin and Reinvestment rate scenarios showed that there is no margin of safety. This is not an investment opportunity from a value investing perspective.

I am a long-term value investor who has held onto stocks for more than 5 years. My analysis and valuation are from such a perspective. I consider quarterly results "noisy" and focus on long-term trends.

BNM MAINTAINS OPR AT 3%

Monetary Policy Statement (MPS) Snapshot: May 2024

What did we decide?

We kept the OPR unchanged at 3%

- This is in line with the health of the economy and remains supportive of growth
- Financing continues to be available with sustained improvement in credit growth

What's happening in the economy?

The Malaysian economy continued to expand

- Continued employment and wage growth support household spending
- Exports recovery continued to be supported by improvement in global trade
- The rise in tourist arrivals and spending benefits local businesses
- Both private and public investment projects are making good progress
- Global developments continued to affect regional exchange rates, including the ringgit
- The coordinated actions by the Government and Bank Negara Malaysia have cushioned the pressure on the ringgit

Inflation continued to remain low

How do we see the economy in the future?

The Malaysian economy is expected to improve further while inflation will be moderate

- Our exports will be further supported by stronger global trade activity
- Implementation of domestic policies would affect both the growth and inflation outlook
- The OPR continues to support growth while keeping inflation in check

NET FOREIGN BUYING ON BURSA SURGES TO RM1.06B, HIGHEST WEEKLY TOTAL IN TWO YEARS - MIDF

A ccording to MIDF Research, net foreign buying of Malaysian equities surged to RM1.06 billion for the week ended May 3, marking a 3.6-fold increase from RM292.2 million in the week before. It was the strongest weekly net buying amount in two years, and foreign investors were net buyers every day. The last time Malaysia saw such heavy inflows was for the week ended March 18, 2022, at RM1.18 billion.

For the week commencing April 29, foreign investors net bought RM451.8 million on Monday (29/4), RM184.3 million on Tuesday (30/4), RM43 million on Thursday (2/5), and RM376.1 million on Friday (3/5). The sectors that recorded the highest net foreign inflows were utilities (RM443.7 million), financial services (RM277.3 million), and telecommunications and media (RM140.4 million).

Meanwhile, the sectors with the highest net foreign outflows were energy (RM22.4 million), plantations (RM16.9 million), and property (RM10.4 million).

Local institutions took a breather from their support for the local market when they net sold RM943.1 million for the week, after net buying for nine straight weeks. The research house said local retailers sustained their net selling streak for the eighth consecutive week totalling RM112.2 million.

In terms of participation, the average daily trading volume saw increases among all investor classes. Foreign investors led with an increase of 22% while local institutional investors and local retail investors saw surges of 16.7% and 6.7% respectively.

HOME MINISTRY SIGNS 14 CONTRACTS WORTH OVER RM2BIL WITH LOCAL COMPANIES

According to Home Minister Datuk Seri Saifuddin Nasution Ismail, the Home Ministry (KDN) has inked 14 contracts with local companies valued at RM2.156 billion in conjunction with the Defence Services Asia (DSA) Exhibition & Conference 2024 and National Security (NATSEC) Asia 2024. The signing of the contracts is symbolic of the ministry's continuous efforts for agencies under its purview. The contract segments signed include information technology, logistics as well as asset upgrade.

After the contract signing ceremony, he said that this shows that KDN views the Royal Malaysian Police (PDRM) as an important agency that must be supported to ensure its state of readiness.

Local companies that signed the contracts include TM Technology Services Sdn Bhd, Telekom Malaysia Bhd and Labuan Shipyard Engineering Sdn Bhd. Of the 14 contracts signed, 12 were for PDRM worth RM1.57 billion, one was for the Malaysian Maritime Enforcement Agency (MMEA) valued at RM529.66 million, and one was for the National Registration Department (JPN) worth RM52.36 million. Among the high-impact contracts sealed were for the acquisition of a multi-purpose police transport vessel as a cargo carrier (mother ship) and training for the PDRM, as well as the acquisition of four medium lift helicopters for MMEA.

Meanwhile he said that the helicopter purchase for MMEA is a priority due to the agency’s essential role in safeguarding the nation’s territorial waters which span a very large area and are exposed to a host of potential threats. Since MMEA is a very important agency, it is a priority to sign the contract for the helicopters which should be supplied by the winning company in two years.

On the RM52.36 million JPN contract, he said that it is to ensure that JPN remains an important registration agency for keeping records and data of Malaysians.

ADVANCING SUSTAINABILITY: PATH TO NSR

To be aligned with the evolving global sustainability reporting standards, the Securities Commission Malaysia (SC)'s Advisory Committee on Sustainability Reporting (ACSR) recently released a Consultation Paper to seek public feedback on incorporating the sustainability and climate-related International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) S1 and S2 standards by the International Sustainability Standards Board (ISSB) into Malaysia's National Sustainability Reporting Framework (NSRF).

Using the ISSB Standards as the baseline standard, NSRF aims to improve the availability of reliable, comparable and decision-useful information on companies' material sustainability risks and opportunities.

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

- NSRF to improve the availability of reliable, comparable and decision-useful information on companies' material sustainability risks and opportunities.
- MSWG believes a 12-month lead time for implementation guidelines and regulatory requirement amendments is reasonable.
- We support ACSR's initiative to mandate NLCos to embrace the NSRF and external assurance for sustainability disclosures.

WHY INTERNATIONAL STANDARDS MATTER

First and foremost, the decision to align with international reporting standards stems from various factors, notably the role of foreign direct investments (FDIs) in Malaysia's economic growth. FDIs have been instrumental in driving industrialisation, technology transfer, and job creation in the country. Malaysia ranks as the fourth-largest recipient of FDIs in the ASEAN region, trailing behind Singapore and Indonesia. The pursuit of FDIs has been a consistent policy objective of the Malaysian Government, which has implemented various measures and incentives to attract foreign investors. Given the importance of FDIs, aligning with international reporting standards enhances Malaysia's attractiveness to investors and promotes competitiveness in the global market.

Additionally, the adoption of ISSB Standards is crucial for addressing climate-related risks, such as the Carbon Border Adjustment Mechanism (CBAM). CBAM, set to be fully implemented in 2026, aims to impose a price on carbon emissions associated with the production of carbon-intensive goods imported into the European Union (EU). The implications of CBAM for the economy are manifold. Products such as aluminium, iron and steel, electrical appliances, electronics, machinery, rubber products, and vegetable oils, which constitute a significant portion of Malaysia's exports to the EU, will be affected by CBAM. By adopting ISSB Standards, Malaysian companies can develop effective carbon reduction strategies and address CBAM transition risks.

Furthermore, the reporting of reliable sustainability information is essential for supporting national targets outlined in strategic plans like the 12th Malaysia Plan. This includes commitments to reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions by 45% by 2030 and achieve net-zero emissions by 2050. Achieving these ambitious goals requires robust climate related information.

CURRENT AND FUTURE SUSTAINABILITY REPORTING LANDSCAPE

The foundation for sustainability reporting was laid out in the Listing Requirements introduced in October 2015 and subsequently enhanced in September 2022. The existing sustainability reporting requirements mainly apply to listed issuers and financial institutions with voluntary adoption by non-listed companies. The Enhanced Sustainability Reporting Requirements (ESRR, announced in September 2022) mandates the disclosure of information across various themes and indicators deemed material for all listed issuers.

Come 2025, Main Market-listed issuers must disclose their climate-related risks and opportunities aligned with the recommendations of the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures (TCFD) in their sustainability statements. In addition, ACE Market-listed issuers are required to disclose a basic transition plan towards a low-carbon economy in 2026.

Moving forward, ACSR is considering to extend the adoption of IFRS S1 and S2 to both listed and large non-listed companies (NLCos) with annual revenue of RM2 billion and above.

MSWG COMMENTS TO THE PROPOSED NSRF CONSULTATION PAPER

MSWG was invited by the SC to participate in the NSRF consultation paper. On the implementation timeline, we believe that providing a 12-month lead time for implementation guidelines and regulatory requirement amendments is reasonable. This timeframe considers several factors:

- (i) TCFD recommendations are already part of the current Bursa Listing Requirements and are included within IFRS S2.
- (ii) IFRS S2 incorporates built-in relief measures, including transition reliefs.
- (iii) The proposed additional reliefs by ACSR align with the implementation timeline of the Enhanced Sustainability Reporting Requirements under the Bursa Listing Requirements.

Apart from the proposed adoption of NSRF by Main and ACE-Market listed issuers, MSWG also echoed ACSR's initiative to mandate NLCos to embrace the NSRF, given the pivotal significance of climate-related disclosure in fostering business resilience, enhancing competitiveness and facilitating access to financing for companies.

Additionally, MSWG supports mandating external assurance for sustainability disclosures, be it limited or reasonable assurance. The scope of assurance should cover Scope 1, Scope 2, and Scope 3 GHG emissions, common sustainability matters outlined in the ESRR, and sustainability matters prioritised by the company.

External assurance enhances investor confidence in the reported information, aiding informed investment decisions. It also helps to mitigate the risk of greenwashing, which can undermine the credibility of sustainability information.
