BNM, SC BEFING UP ISLAMIC BANKING, FINANCE THROUGH MIFC - PM

ccording to Prime Minister Datuk Seri Anwar Ibrahim, Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM) and the Securities Commission (SC) have been taking steps to ensure the sustainability and effectiveness of the Islamic finance system by raising the standards to not only halal, but also 'halalan thoyyiban' (lawful and good). Both BNM and the SC have charted the course towards 'halalan thoyyiban' via the Malaysia International Islamic Financial Centre through collaborations with the industry and the Islamic finance ecosystem, including zakat and waqf boards, the banking system, Islamic stock market and sukuk. This is done by focusing on equity financing, including venture capital, equity crowdfunding and the Islamic digital economy, Islamic social finance (including zakat, waqf and sadaqah), as well as the 'blended finance' methods that use funds from a wider range of sources.

Speaking at the launch of the Madani Economy: Empowering the People, he said these efforts will help to enhance the Islamic financial system in Malaysia and further strengthen our position as a leader in the global Islamic economy. This would also help to boost the growth of environmental, social and corporate governance (ESG) funds globally.

A holistic and Madani national development effort cannot be achieved without a financial system that is fair, just and based on Magasid Sharia (the objectives and purposes behind Islamic rulings). Malaysia has a holistic Islamic finance ecosystem after the establishment of Bank Islam 40 years ago and Lembaga Tabung Haji 60 years ago. Malaysia's Islamic finance system has been recognised as the world's best by independent analysts. Today, the Islamic banking's share of the financing market is at 44.5 percent (RM974.1 billion), and the Islamic capital market remains the main component of the Malaysian capital market, accounting for 64.3 percent (RM2.32 trillion).

The Leading Index recorded 110.3 points in May 2023, expecting an encouraging economic outlook albeit cautious sentiment - DOSM

According to the Department of Statistics Malaysia, the performance of the Leading Index in May 2023 recorded a better negative growth of 1.1 per cent with 110.3 points as compared to a negative 2.7 per cent in April 2023. This negative performance was pulled down by Real Imports of Semi-Conductors and Real Imports of Other Basic Precious & Other Non-Ferrous Metals. Nevertheless, LI's monthly performance grew by 1.8 per cent, as a result of growth in five (5) LI components except Expected Sales Value in Manufacturing (-0.8%) and Real Money Supply, M1 (-0.3%).

Despite improvement in both indices for this reference month, the smoothed LI growth rate remained below the 100.0 points trend.

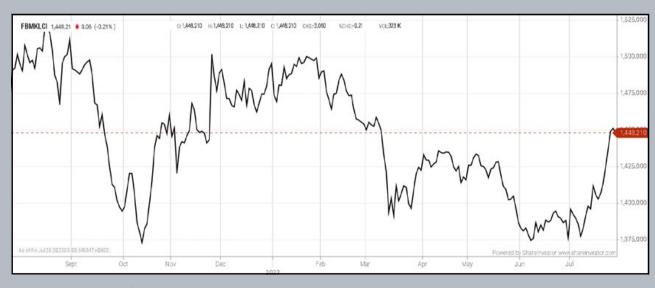

Accordingly, Malaysia's economy is foreseen encouraging in the near term, however, heightened global challenges should be taken into consideration.

As for the current economic situation, the Coincident Index (CI) maintained a positive annual growth momentum since September 2021 by registering 3.1 per cent to 124.3 points in May 2023 as compared to 120.6 points in the same month of the previous year, contributed by the good performance of all components. Simultaneously, the monthly change in CI also increased by 2.5 per cent, with Capacity Utilisation in Manufacturing (1.2%) contributing significantly to the rise.

The Diffusion Index for LI remained 57.1 per cent in the reference month. Meanwhile, the Diffusion Index for CI increased to 100.0 per cent for the first time in 2023.

ANNUAL RE-ELECTION OF DIRECTORS - A DOUBLE-EDGED SWORD

Devanesan Evanson

Chief Executive Officer, Minority Shareholders Watch Group

ith rapidly evolving markets, changing consumer demands, and technological advancements, boardroom refreshments are important to a company's long-term success. The regular infusion of new talent, diverse perspectives, and fresh skills into the boardroom is vital for staying agile and relevant in today's dynamic business landscape.

Already we have regulations in place to compel periodical refreshments in the boardroom. For instance, the Companies Act 2016 states that one-third of the directors of a company shall retire from office every year and seek re-election. The Act further states that the directors to retire every year shall be the directors who have been longest in office since their last election. All Bursa Malaysialisted companies (PLCs) strictly adhere to this requirement, with most directors standing for re-election at intervals of not more than three years. However, it is unusual to see public-listed companies go beyond regulatory requirements to the extent of requiring every director to stand for re-election on an annual basis.

United Kingdom is one of the jurisdictions that has adopted the practice of requiring listed company directors to stand for re-election every year (see sidebar). Based on MSWG's observation, at least two PLCs - affiliated with each other, have taken the initiative to adopt such practices for years. Kudos to them. In responding to queries on the rationale for such practice in a recently held AGM, the chairman of one of the PLCs explained that the practice would accord shareholders the right to assess individual directors' performance every year. He added that doing so also elevates the level and standing of corporate governance for the said PLC. The Company, a large-cap financial services provider (with a market capitalisation of above RM2 billion), has proposed the re-election of every director at its AGM since 2019, two years after its affiliate company started to do so. The requirement for annual reelection is enshrined in their board charters.

BETTER CG AND SHAREHOLDER EMPOWERMENT

Proponents believe such annual re-election empowers shareholders with greater rights in charting the future of a company through its choice of directors. This in turn cultivates accountability among directors. Such an approach enables shareholders to have active discourses to deliberate directors' performance yearly. If shareholders opine that the directors' performance is not up to mark, they can exercise their rights to vote against the re-election of that director. Shareholders will be able to remove poor performing directors if they manage to muster more than half of the votes cast. Such removal is a real possibility, especially in companies with fragmented and dispersed shareholding structures, where there is no single major shareholder or entity holding a significant portion of the company's shares. This then will be a form of minority shareholder activism as well. By requiring directors to stand re-election annually, the company reduces the risk of long-term entrenchment and complacency while promoting independence and reducing the risks of conflict of interest.

By the same token, corporate strategies and priorities may evolve rapidly due to market conditions, regulatory changes, or other external factors. Annual re-election enables the board to adjust its composition to align with the company's evolving needs. It also brings new perspectives and skills to the boardroom, enhancing the diversity of thoughts and skillsets.

RESULTS IN A REVOLVING DOOR

Against the myriad benefits, the practice is contentious, controversial and highly debatable. Opponents of such practice are concerned that doing so can be detrimental to the company and can have wide-reaching consequences.

It takes time for businesses to bear fruit. Similarly, directors require sufficient time to familiarise themselves with the company, business and industry, and the annual reelection system may not provide adequate time for newly appointed directors to contribute meaningfully. As it is,

THE UK CORPORATE GOVERNANCE CODE

The practice of annual reelection was incorporated in the UK Corporate Governance Code published by the Financial Reporting Council in June 2010. Under Code Provision B.7.1 of the UK CG Code 2010, it was stated that all directors of FTSE350 companies should be subject to annual election by shareholders. The Code added that non-executive directors who had served longer than nine years should be subject to annual reelection.

Later in 2018, the Provision was amended to encompass constant re-election processes may turn boardrooms into a revolving door for directors, resulting in instability and hindering the formation of cohesive and effective boards. Frequent board and senior management changes also disrupt long-term strategic planning, undermining sustainable growth and value creation.

For this reason, qualified individuals may be hesitant to pursue roles with companies with such annual uncertainties and may prefer companies with more stable and longer-term directorship tenures. Knowing that they will face re-election once a year, directors might be tempted to take a short-term view and not act in the longterm interest of the company. They may suspect that they may not survive another term in office. They may think that they will not be able to be held accountable for their short-term decisions and actions.

Bad management decisions may only surface a few years down the road. All in all, the annual re-election of directors PLCs with a Premium Listing (a segment with stringent regulatory and governance requirements) on the London Stock Exchange (LSE). The amended Provision 18 of the CG Code 2018 spells that: "All directors should be subject to annual reelection. The board should set out in the papers accompanying the resolutions to elect each director the specific reasons why their contribution is, and continues to be, important to the company's long-term sustainable success."

Furthermore, the Code went further to limit the tenure of a chair to not more than nine years since their first appointment to the board (under Provision 19). It opines that long tenure can increase the risk of complacency and groupthink. Therefore, the Code opines that periodical refreshments could facilitate succession planning and the development of a diverse board, thus preserving a board's effectiveness, integrity, and independence.

The UK CG Code adopts a "comply or explain" approach, providing listed companies with certainly does not augur well for long-term shareholders' value, they argue. And because nomination and appointment of incumbent directors are often endorsed by controlling and major shareholders, critics contend that the approach will not meet the intended outcome in promoting the true spirit of advocating better CG.

NO ONE-SIZE FITS ALL

The practice of re-electing directors yearly is a sword that cuts both ways. On the one hand, it promotes accountability and shareholder engagement by regularly assessing directors' performance and qualifications.

And yet, the same practice the flexibility to choose their fitted governance approaches according to their particular circumstances, i.e., size, organisation and ownership structure, and resources. All companies with a Premium Listing of equity shares on the Main Market of the LSE, regardless of place of incorporation, must report each year in their annual report and accounts on how they have applied the Principles of the Code and the extent to which they have complied with its Provisions, explaining the reasons and their chosen alternative arrangement for any departure.

might lead to a lack of accountability and short-term focus among directors, potentially compromising the company's strategic planning. PLCs should determine what works best for them according to their unique circumstances and governance needs. Ultimately, the key lies in establishing a governance framework that ensures continuous director scrutiny, diversity, and adaptability, while fostering long-term value creation and stakeholders' confidence.
